

BY AUTHORITY.

In the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands.

ORDER.

By virtue of the power vested in me by the 842d Section of the Civil Code, I hereby order a Special Term of the Supreme Court to be held in the Court Room of Aliolani Hale, in Honolulu, on WEDNESDAY, the 12th day of June, 1889, at 10 o'clock A. M., for the trial of civil cases by foreign jury from the April Term, 1889, and none other.

Witness my hand and seal of the Supreme Court at Honolulu, this 26th day of April, 1889.
A. F. JUDD,
Chief Justice of the Supreme Court.
Attest: HENRY SMITH, Clerk.

HONOLULU PECULIARITIES.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—As a new arrival in the Hawaiian Islands, one of my chief amusements has been to observe the peculiarities of the white residents—especially those of Honolulu. The city, the buildings, and the surroundings have not struck me as being uncommon or in any way materially differing from small towns in California and other semi-tropical regions. The natives do not differ much from natives of the Marquesas, Tahiti, Samoa, New Zealand, or the Friendly Islands; but are better clothed, better housed, and probably better fed than on some of the other groups. The greatest difference that I have observed in Honolulu is in regard to certain peculiarities of the white residents; and I shall now mention a few peculiar traits of individual action, which I think are general and common, although there are doubtless exceptions.

If one gentleman has business with another, and happens to meet him on the street alone, he, of course, stops the latter to talk over the business with him; but he is immediately interrupted by other gentlemen buttonholing the gentleman spoken to and monopolizing the conversation. The man who is thus buttonholed may have walked the length of an entire street without being spoken to; but no sooner does one stop him to speak, than half a dozen others suddenly remember that they have something to say to that man. Another peculiar trait is, that if a well-dressed man stands to look at the goods displayed in a store window, about a dozen other men will feel similarly affected; and a window that had, up to this time, attracted little notice, is suddenly besieged by crowds who linger around and are puzzled to know what they are looking at. A smart trader would take advantage of this hint, and hire a well-dressed man to man to look continually into his show windows. The result would pay. Another peculiarity is that the business man of Honolulu is seldom found in his place of business. He is either on the street or in the office of some other business man. Indeed, he is anywhere but just where he is supposed to be; and wherever he is, during the day, his shirt sleeves betoken an employment in which he is never engaged.

The practice of Honolulu ladies doing their shopping without leaving their carriages, will, doubtless, in time, call for a remodeling of Honolulu stores. The merchant who can grasp the future conditions from this practice, will doubtless build his next store with a carriage way up the middle and have his counters and shelves on both sides of the track. Another remark and I have done. I observe that time has little value in Honolulu, and every transaction seems to be carried out on the "dilly dilly" or delay principle. There is everything to remind one of eternity here; but very little to remind one of time, except the clock of the Planning Mills, when it does not stop.

BASEBALL—A SUGGESTION.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—As the season commences next Saturday, May 4th, for the five or six clubs to play out on the regular grounds, and as a number of us take great pleasure in seeing said games, the only amusement allowed us, would it be out of order to suggest with all due respect, that as the names of good players of other countries are of world wide repute, that the names be published of the players of each club, so as to enhance the interest in the games to be played?

If the BULLETIN, with its usual enterprise, would send one of its favorite reporters to interview the captain of each club, he could not doubt get a correct list of each. It would go far to make the interest greater than it now is. And what is to prevent in the near future, one or more of our members being sent as a delegate to the United States as a representative of Hawaii. We have sent abroad to different affairs, as a cost to the country—to Samoa, France and America, etc.—and why not as base ball players, without cost to the tax payers, and with a chance of getting a salary of $5000 to $10,000. We may look a long time before we have another visit from any club here, after the late experience—arriving as they did on Sunday, and not being allowed to play, being the Sabbath, which, we being a little better than the rest of the world, would not allow; notwithstanding that in San Francisco 20 steamers go on pleasure excursions on that day, bands playing, etc., and the only wonder is that the tram cars are allowed to run to the park, because "don't you know" they might do wrong in going there.

No one asks the goody goody people to go to the park or go out to the baseball. In fact, they are better away. But then it is the only day we mechanics have to enjoy ourselves. Why should the minority rule, even if it be the age of reform, as long as everything is conducted in order? But it is about time to stop all Connecticut Blue Laws here. As poor Chinamen are hauled up for playing dominoes on week days, not Sundays. If the very good people dared they would make laws that would soon result in their being placed where they belong. There is a medium in everything, and I would be the last to advocate public houses to be open on Sunday, but do allow us some little amusement, outside of going to church and Wednesday evening prayer meetings, and Y. M. C. A. lectures. So say we all of us.

KILA.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Yesterday afternoon, a native Hawaiian entered my office with the usual subscription list in his hand. After examining its heading I read the pitiful story of a man who has ordered to the settlement on Molokai (the living grave as it is termed) was wanted to provide for wife and children before leaving.

Upon questioning the man, I learned that he was the very person mentioned, and he himself was soliciting subscriptions and collecting money for the support of his family which he had to leave behind him sometime during next week.

This is the first time that such a thing occurred to me during my 24 years residence here, and I can but admire the pluck of this man, whether he collects money for the purpose of providing for his family or not.

THE NATIVE FRANCHISE.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—If there is one thing above all others will bring me into print over my own name, it is these instantly attacks on the capabilities of natives as a governing power among themselves. I thank you for your own remarks in reply to "Equity,"—by the bye a very bad cognomen—and I would refer that gentleman to a reply I made in your issue of Dec. 2nd, 1888, to a person who signed himself "Sojourner." Almost all I said then applies to the remarks of "Equity." I am vain enough to think that reply worth reproducing. Mr. Editor, for the benefit of any who may be influenced by what "Equity" now says, "Equity" makes a very unhappy allusion to Uncle Sam's management of the Indians, for, as an American citizen, I must confess I do not know of any one thing Uncle Sam has done which presents a more deplorable failure of what your correspondent signs himself, "Equity." His presumption in comparing a "silent kaka" and a "dead Indian," is a piece of unmitigated brass such as I cannot conceive any man who understands our politics guilty of.

The question is not "what shall we do with the natives?" but on the native side "what shall we do with the whites?" They have an undisputable right to look at things from this standpoint! Let white men be honest. They came here to make money, and they do it right straight along even if they loan a paltry hundred on a little kuleana, and then gobble it up for interest and the Lord knows what.

There are just as good natives living now as there ever were, and the 1890 elections will show it (that is if the white man keeps the cursed gin bottle well guarded and does not use undue influence at the elections).

Yours obediently,

W. F. REYNOLDS.

Honolulu, April 30th.

TO-MORROW'S CONCERT.

Mr. Felix Ollert will give his piano recital at the Hawaiian Opera House to-morrow evening, assisted by local talent. A capital programme has been arranged. The box plan for the sale of seats can be found at the office of J. E. Brown & Co., Merchant street. With such an attractive programme there ought to be a good house.

FROM M. THOMPSON'S DIGEST OF HAWAIIAN SUPREME COURT DECISIONS.

SPECIAL PLEADING.

The first section of the Act of 1848, to prevent special pleading, does not apply to the verification of libels in admiralty or bills in equity. Scudder et al. vs. Weeks, 1 Haw. 207.

SUIT AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

A suit cannot be instituted against this government, without the permission of the King in council. Cuthbert vs. The Hawaiian Government, 1 Haw. 151. But see Act "To provide for the bringing of suits by or against the Hawaiian Government;" Session Laws 1888, ch. 51, p. 122.

TENDER.

To support the plea of tender, and thereby save costs, it must appear that the tender was absolute, and not coupled with any condition.

Money tendered with a demand for a receipt is not a legal tender. Hardy vs. Angel, 1 Haw. 149.

No tender is necessary when it is reasonably certain that it will be refused. Johnson vs. Tisdale, 4 Haw. 603.

TESTIMONY BY COMMISSION.

Every petition for a commission under our statute, should set forth the names of the witnesses; that they are without the kingdom; that they are material; and that the party asking for the commission, cannot safely proceed to trial without their evidence.

As a general rule the affidavit should set forth what the petitioner expects to be able to prove by the witnesses; but the Court will not require it to be set forth, where good reasons are shown why it should not be. But on a motion to grant a second commission, to take the evidence of new witnesses, the Court will always require the party asking for it, to state in the affidavit what he expects to prove by the witnesses named. If there are bills of sale, deeds, or other writings of any kind to be proved, they should be annexed to the affidavit, and marked as they are referred to in the interrogatories. Fell vs. Parke, 1 Haw. 150.

When testimony had been taken by a commission, under letters rogatory addressed to a U. S. District Court in California, it was received, although it did not appear that the testimony had been taken under a special order from the Court to whom the letters rogatory were sent. Post vs. Lady Jane, 1 Haw. 162.

TROVER.

Trover brought by the heir against the relations of the widow, who died before her dower was set off, for taking away and converting to their own use personal property belonging to the husband's estate: Held, that the defendants were liable, and could not defend themselves by saying that the property converted amounted to more than the widow's share of her husband's personality. Keliipalapala vs. Panano et al., 1 Haw. 280.

VENDOR OF SHIP.

A vendor of a ship cannot recover in an action for the purchase money, until he has first tendered a good and sufficient bill of sale. Macfarlane vs. Gilmore, 1 Haw. 43.

VERDICT OF JURY.

When the jury take the law into their own hands, and find a verdict contrary to the law, without regarding the instructions of the Court, the Court will set aside such a verdict so often as it is returned. Lewis vs. Davis, 1 Haw. 141.

VERIFICATION OF PLAINTIFF'S PETITION.

Every civil action to be tried in any of the Courts of record in this kingdom, shall be commenced by petition, which shall be verified by the oath of the plaintiff, or some one on his behalf, who is able, of his own knowledge, to swear to the truth of the facts therein set forth. Morgan vs. Manuel, 1 Haw. 165.

A verification which stated that the party had read the pleading, and the "same is true according to the best of his knowledge and belief," is not a sufficient verification! B.

SUPREME COURT—AT CHAMBERS.

BEFORE M'GILL, J.

Monday, April 30.
In re estate of Kong Leen. Petition of Lau Chong, administrator, for allowance of accounts and discharge. The Court orders the accounts approved and the administrator's bond cancelled, also that the vouchers be returned to the administrator. P. Neumann, for petitioner.

BEFORE PLESTON, J.

In the matter of the estate of J. B. Keohokiki, deceased. Petition for probate of will. The Court allows the motion for removal of order for dismissing the petition, made the previous day. Case further continued to May 20th.

In the matter of the brig Consuelo. Order for release on bond. The Court approves of the bond for $7000 and orders release.

DEATH OF J. H. BRUNS JR.

It is with regret that we announce the death of J. Henry Bruns Jr., which took place about 9 o'clock, last evening, after a brief illness, in the thirtieth year of his age. He took cold a few days ago, and was set in and despite the efforts of the best medical skill, died as stated above. The deceased was a well known and much respected young man in this community. He was at one time in business for himself as an upholsterer and cabinet maker, at the corner of Bethel and King streets, but for a long time past had worked for Mr. C. E. Williams. The deceased was 1st sergeant in Company A Honolulu Rifles, and also a member of Oceanic Council No. 777 American Legion of Honor. He leaves a wife and three children, father and mother, three brothers and two sisters to mourn his loss.

The funeral takes place this afternoon at half-past four o'clock, from the residence of his parents, 33 Beretania street.

CELEBRATING AN ANNIVERSARY.

The Rev. Dr. Lowell Smith, father of Mrs. B. F. Dillingham and Mr. A. L. Smith, and the Rev. H. H. Parker, pastor of the Kawaiahao Church, arrived in these islands in the year 1833. Today these two gentlemen, who are the oldest missionaries living on the islands, are celebrating the fifty-sixth anniversary of their arrival. May they both live to see many more anniversaries.

THE EMPEROR WILLIAM AT HOME.

A writer in the Berlin "Tageblatt" gives some interesting particulars concerning the home life of the Emperor William II. Like his grandfather, the Emperor loves to live simply, and when his habits are not interfered with by the presence of distinguished guests at the Castle, he rises at seven, breakfasts at half-past, and dines with the Empress at the unfashionable hour of one. His favorite relaxation is to play with his children. Every day he receives, upon an average, about 600 letters. These are brought to him on a silver tray as they arrive, and he opens those letters which bear a handwriting, a coat of arms, or a postmark which is known to him, or excites his curiosity. The rest of the correspondence goes unopened to the Civil Cabinet, the members of which deal with it as may be necessary. The majority of the envelopes contain begging letters or personal petitions. The Emperor has only one body servant at a time in attendance upon him, and this man shaves him, takes care of his wardrobe, and affords him what assistance he requires while dressing. Much of the Emperor's time is spent in his private library, where he writes much and rapidly. Every new book, and every newspaper dealing with military or naval subjects, whether it be in German, French, Russian, or English, is seen by him; and, besides being a regular bibliomane, so far as regards books on strategy and military history, he is an enthusiastic collector of portraits and autographs of his more celebrated contemporaries. He leaves the education of his children entirely to the direction of the Empress, who is not only a strict disciplinarian, but also extremely attentive to the religious training of the young Princes. This she at present herself undertakes. At the outset of his reign, the Emperor rendered himself somewhat notorious for his readiness to speak in public. Curiously enough, he has the reputation among his personal friends of being one of the most silent of men, save on the rare occasions when he throws off the monarch and gives rein to his natural high spirits. So much is this the case, that in his household the saying is, "The Emperor never speaks; he only orders."—[Home News.
